ABOUT ME

Ashley Wright is a game curator who writes game reviews for Gypsy Gameschooler and helps homeschooling parents have more fun with their kids so that they can build better relationships.

I decided to homeschool my kids while working toward my master's in education - before I even had kids! When I realized my eager little learners were as tired and burnt out as I was, I knew a change was in order. We started gameschooling and never looked back!

MY BLOG

Gypsy Gameschooler is focused on sharing really honest reviews. Mostly games, but also other homeschooling resources. I post a new review at least weekly, but especially when I'm excited about something, I'll have a mid-week bonus.

I also feature play-through videos on my YouTube channel. I try to make sure each video is less than 5 minutes in length, though sometimes really complex games need more time.

My favorite posts are roundups of lots of different board games!
